

Stem cells in the pancreas

We are yet to find true stem cells in the adult pancreas. This image shows cells that are producing insulin in grey (the beta cells) which are thought to derive from progenitors (shown in green).

Image: Mark Van De Casteele, Gunter Leuckx and Harry Heimberg